

His research activity is focused on the following topics: characterization of the physiopathologic interplay between muscle and nerve; characterization of the signature of hostile microenvironment in muscular dystrophy and sarcopenia; stem cells and tissue regeneration; development and characterization of muscle engineered in vitro model to study muscle homeostasis and differentiation.